Away.

NO DANGER FROM DISEASE

HINTS ON WHAT TO EAT AND DRINK.

(Special Correspondence.)

Manila, P. I., July 24.—On a steamer bound from Shanghai to Hongkong recently, there were a half-dozen of the American tourists aboard who had planned to take a trip to the elevated city stop in Hongkong by taking a two days' run down to Manila. Naturally enough, they wanted to see Uncle Sam's new islands and the "little brown brothers." Did they come on down to Manila? No, indeed, and you would not have either if you had been there those gullible travelers. The stories of cholera and bubonic plague that the ship's officers told would have scared anyone off—provided he hadn't had a few servants of color.

It is a fact that most of the English in Manila have their hammers on for Manila and malign her on every occasion. As I purchased my ticket for Manila, I asked the agent of the steamship company if he didn't think the ship's people ought to try to encourage traffic on their company's boats. He admitted that it was poor business to encourage people from Manila, but he added, really, you know, I should really like to live there, you know.

"Really?" I asked.

"Yes, really," he replied.

"Well," I suggested, "you're pretty likely to have to move there before long, whether you like it or not."

"Why, how's that?"

"Harbor is magnificent."

"When our new port improvement is done, we'll have the harbor of the Orient, and your home will move its main office to Manila."

"And I left him to worry over it. When he does come down here he'll join the Anglo-kickers' association and go round telling what a fine place it was before the Americans came."

As a matter of fact, Manila, before the Americans came, was one of the finest examples of a rotten government on earth. It had a reputation for disease which is only equalled by Hongkong and a few other choice cities. The last two days I was in Hongkong, last month, the reported dead bodies from bubonic plague alone were thirty-eight.

Some friends of the writer were recently in Japan and intended coming to Manila. Presumably they ran across some version of the blacksmith chorus, which they didn't get beyond Nagasaki. The reason assigned was "virulent scarlet fever," which was said to be rampant in Hongkong, as though anything as mild as scarlet fever could thrive in Hongkong.

What to Avoid.

There is, seriously, no occasion for anyone giving up a trip to Hongkong or Manila on account of epidemics. Drink Pan Pan or Appollinaris or White Rock, and avoid salads and other uncooked food, and you will be safe enough as much as at home. With all the gross carelessness of travelers in such matters, I never heard of one of them having cholera or plague. With all the gross carelessness of the natives, it is natural that they should occasionally succumb. Our board of health is composed of bright, active, well-prepared physicians, who are waging war on pestilence of all types. They are now immunizing the thousands of Chinese in the city by the use of the vaccine virus, which is the chief distributors of the bubonic plague—brings them into the station at bus stop.

The fight against cholera has prevented a repetition of last year's epidemic. The American physicians of Manila learned several lessons during last year's fight with the cholera, and they have made use of the knowledge of the year with good effect.

The three requisites to health in Manila are light, dry clothing, well-cooked food and pure water. The last both internally and externally. All of these are obtainable. The only mistake that anyone who misses Manila makes a mistake, especially if he is an American. The months in which Manila is at its best are December, January and February.

Navigator to tow the life savers to where the small boat was in danger of being swamped.

Daring Rescue.

It was 11 o'clock this morning when the Navigator, a small boat, was in danger of being swamped. The Navigator was in a perilous position and it was fully an hour before they could be rescued. This was accomplished in a daring manner as has ever been told in any sea tale.

The big tug made several attempts to get near the yawl and then, finally, going to windward, cast off the life line. With splendid dexterity, the yawl was sent from the lifeboat to a pole on the fish pond and then was paid out until the yawl was reached.

The shipwrecked crew and passengers were in such a condition that they could not help themselves, and Captain Patterson of the life crew and his men had simply to lift them out. First came the two women, and then three sailors. Meantime, under the direction of Mr. Iselin, the Navigator's crew had thrown a dozen pails of oil overboard to the windward of the yawl so that the sea was calmed and the big tug had taken a position so that the wind did not catch her on the beam. The women were brought aboard were carefully attended to. Mr. Iselin having taken along a woman attendant.

Women Nearly Perished.

Captain Frost of the Mason said later that just before the Navigator arrived they had concluded that the women would die in a few hours, and they had decided to try for the beach. He said that Saturday morning the lightship at anchor the Old Dominion steamer Hamilton offered to take them off and he urged the women to go, but they declined to leave without the men. The men thought the storm would abate and they would get the boat to harbor in safety.

During the night he believes the Mason struck something.

Thousands along the shore watched the clever work of the lifesavers. Twice the lifeboat was filled with water, but as she was a self-bailer she cleared herself. The going down in low of the Navigator was in itself a perilous thing in such a sea. When the men returned Mr. Iselin said a special word of praise to them, and in return was heartily cheered. When Captain Patterson asked for the assistance of the Navigator, Captain Charles Barr of the Holliston, who stood by, said:

"I have fifty men, every one of them will volunteer to help if you want them."

It was the tug and not the men that was needed, however.

COMMISSION IS NOW IN LONDONAlaskan "Boundary Dispute Will Soon be Settled.

CONTENTIONS OF CANADA

VIGOROUS OPPOSITION OF MR.
FOSTER.

(Special Correspondence.)

London, Aug. 30.—Secretary of War Elihu Root, ex-Secretary of State John Foster, Hanna Taylor and Judge John M. Dickinson arrived at Liverpool on the Celtic today for the meetings of the Alaskan boundary commission, which will open in London Sept. 2. They were received at Liverpool by J. P. Bessie, assistant United States dispatch agent, on behalf of the American embassy. The party came directly to London and on their arrival here were met by Secretary Carter of the United States embassy. Mr. Root registered at the Hyde Park hotel, while the other members of the party established themselves at the Carlton hotel. The Canadian commissioners also are here.

United States Ambassador Choate has arranged to give a dinner in honor of Secretary Root, at which all the American and British representatives will be present. The commissioners are already familiar with the facts of the case, which were filed several months ago. At the first meeting of the commission next Thursday, the Americans and Canadians will submit their briefs, which will be a condensation of the facts and arguments regarding the interpretation of the United States claims.

The commission will then announce the day on which the oral arguments will be heard.

Canada's Contentions.

The documents have not yet been made public, but the Associated Press understands that the whole controversy centers upon Canada's effort to acquire an outlet to the sea. It is known authoritatively that the Canadian agent asserts that under the Russo-British treaty of 1855 the British properly crosses numerous inlets, including the headwaters of the Lynn canal. The contention seems to be that the inlets less than six miles wide situated in the disputed region belong to Canada.

United States Consul Foster vigorously opposes this view, holding that the treaty clearly places the line thirty miles inland, following the coast line of the coast, thus separating Canada from all the arms of the ocean and putting Porcupine creek and the gold district under American jurisdiction.

The American representatives are confident that their position is unassailable. The commissioners expect that the complete consideration of the case will take less than two months, and that even should the commission fail to render a majority award the facts will be clearly established.

The fight against cholera has prevented a repetition of last year's epidemic. The American physicians of Manila learned several lessons during last year's fight with the cholera, and they have made use of the knowledge of the year with good effect.

CRYING NEEED OF ALASKA IS SAID TO BE ROAD FIND DRIVE ON

San Francisco, Aug. 30.—United States Senator Thomas M. Patterson of Colorado, who arrived here last night from Alaska to his home in Denver, said today that the most urgent need of Alaska is a road. "The most urgent need of Alaska," said Senator Patterson tonight, "is a good road. Another crying need is for law. Every man is a law unto himself, and the administration of justice is woefully slow. The mining laws need to be reformed and regulated and courts appointed with men who will control the territory. We have decided to set upon what we consider these things, but we shall do everything possible for improvement of the territory."

surruption was based on the hope of Austro-Russian intervention, which, if it came about, would be in the interest of those two countries.

"My plan is the independence of Alaska under Italian protection, with an understanding with Greece, while we temporarily Sarafoff would appeal to Europe for Macedonian independence, renouncing all idea of Austro-Russian intervention. If my programme is accepted I will appeal to the Italian people, convinced that in twenty-four hours 25,000 volunteers would follow me to the other side of the Adriatic. I am in hope that the Italian government would not prevent my carrying out this project, but if it did, I would renounce Italian citizenship."

REPORTS ARE CONFLICTING.

Little Known of the Real Situation In Macedonia.

London, Aug. 31.—The Times correspondent at Salonica gives a similar account to that sent by the Daily Mail correspondent of the ill-concealed terror prevailing in that city and the fears that some incident may precipitate an indiscriminate massacre.

Commerce, he says, is paralyzed, and a famine is apprehended. The consuls and consuls recently appealed to their governments to send warships, but the desire to avoid the appearance of encouraging the insurgents seems to be held of greater importance. The precautionary measures for the protection of Europeans, hence the vessels have not been sent.

Preparations for an approaching insurrection in northern Macedonia are rapidly progressing, but the day of the outbreak has not yet been fixed.

Among the Turks themselves, a growing body professes to be ready to support European intervention to remedy the desperate condition of affairs and even talk of murdering the consuls as a means to compel foreign intervention.

There is no lack of sensational news from Salonica, but all the reports are conflicting and confusing. There is much interest and anxiety regarding the fate of Kiusura, which has long been besieged by the insurgents. A large body of Turks sent to raise the siege has gained an important victory.

A report is current that Sept. 1, the sacred anniversary of the sultan's accession, has been chosen to inaugurate the outbreak in the vilayet of Salonica.

FAMINE MUST ENSUE.

Vast Turkish Army Fast Eating Up the Country.

London, Aug. 31.—The Salonica correspondent of the Daily Mail describes the situation in Macedonia as being one of the most grave. The insurgents are everywhere, and the numbers and holding their own against the Ottoman soldiers. Anarchy reigns supreme, asserts the correspondent, and the Turkish troops are completely out of control and eating up the country. In a few weeks famine must ensue, causing untold misery. An outbreak in the vilayet of Salonica now would turn the Turks into wild beasts. The country west of the River Varda toward the vilayet of Monastir is expected to rise daily.

EXCITING THE POPULACE.

Thousands Attend a Demonstration at Belgrade.

Belgrade, Aug. 30.—A crowd of thousands of people gathered at the theatre square this afternoon and demonstrated in sympathy with the Macedonians. Several well-known politicians spoke, and the crowd was incited to violence. The Serbian government has appealed to the Servians to assist the Macedonians in their struggle for freedom, and declared that Serbia, Bulgaria and Greece should intervene on behalf of the Macedonians.

Reports are in circulation here that the monastery of St. Prochor, on the frontier, has been attacked Saturday night and entirely demolished by the Turks and Albanians.

Flying Column Formed.

Constantinople, Aug. 30.—In official circles it is claimed that the situation in the vilayet of Monastir is improving and the troops are gaining the upper hand. A flying column is being formed to fight the bands in the Adrianople district, where the military authorities are requisitioning horses almost everywhere and giving vouchers payable after the restoration of order. Precautions have been taken to protect the Russian embassy and consulate owing to the receipt of anonymous letters threatening them with destruction.

Report Was Exaggerated.

Constantinople, Aug. 30.—It appears that the report by the Austrian consul at Salonica that a detachment of troops discharged their rifles at the Turkish consulate there, arose from the simple circumstance that a party of Albanian reservists on leaving Uskub station in a train fired their rifles at the Turkish consular building. The Albanians were on joining the colors, and the Austrian consulate happened to be close to the station.

Request to Recall.

London, Aug. 30.—A dispatch from Constantinople dated Aug. 29, to the Exchange Telegraph company, says it is understood that after an interview with Foreign Minister Tewfik Pasha, Minister Leishman has been ordered to recall the European squadron that had been ordered to Beirut.

Search for the Culprit.

Constantinople, Aug. 30.—Since the representations made by United States Minister Leishman regarding the attack on the life of Vice Consul Magelsen, the authorities at Beirut are endeavoring to make a marked activity in their efforts to find the culprit.

Sailed for Beirut.

Washington, Aug. 30.—The bureau of navigation of the navy department has been advised by cable that the cruisers Brooklyn and San Francisco sailed from Genoa this (Sunday) morning and are expected to arrive at Beirut Friday next.

Absolutely False.

London, Aug. 30.—The Turkish embassy in London, a statement issued to the press declares the reports of the murder of Vice Consul Magelsen at Beirut to be absolutely false.

WILL MEET TUESDAY.

The Hague, Aug. 30.—It is officially announced that the arbitration court for the Venezuela claims will assemble Sept. 1.

Minister Powell said he had no personal knowledge that Allen had been there. The telegram also said that the minister would co-operate in every way with the authorities to find Allen.

CARLISM DEAD.

Madrid, Aug. 30.—King Alfonso, accompanied by the Prince and Princess of Asturias, left Spain yesterday on a provincial tour. For several hours the journey was made on horseback and in carriages across the Basque and Cantabrian highlands, and the loyalty displayed on the route is held to be a proof that Carlism is almost dead.
